1. What are some of Aristotle's criticisms of the Platonic doctrine of the forms? State the criticisms carefully, and critically assess them.
2. Present and discuss critically some one, or at most two, of St. Thomas' arguments for the existence of God.
3. What exactly is the Cartesian Circle? Does it really arise, or can Descartes avoid it?
4. State and evaluate Hume's analysis of causality.
5. According to popular history, Kant is said to represent the confluence of the Rationalist and the Empiricist tradition in Western Philosophy. To what extent do you think this metaphor is justified? Explain carefully what he takes from each of the two traditions.
6. Explain and discuss Marx's historical materialism in detail.
7. Present and discuss Wittgenstein's view on the possibility of a private language.
